TO BREAK COMBINE IN ORIENT TRAFFIC

YOKOHAMA, January 8.—In quoting an article from the home papers in which it is announced that the two huge 25,000 ton steamers of the Great Northern are to be launched this month, the Japan Mail says it does not see how they are to secure sufficient freight to fill the same unless they have the assistance of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha in securing cargo. In the first place the Nippon Yusen Kaisha now connects with the great Northern, and unless they continue to do so cannot have any other railway connection in the United States, for the Northern Pacific Railway Company is virtually under Hill's control and the big steamers will no doubt be run in their joint interest. But in any case, the freight from Japan is shipped from Kobe and Yokohama and will unquestionably go by the cheapest route, and as Hill announces that the steamers are to be run at cheap rates as feeders to his railway, they will no doubt offer such inducements as to command a large share of the traffic.

It seems that this line will be the means of breaking the trans-Pacific combine and develop a trade in spite of which all the ships now running cannot interfere with. The increase in the number of steamers during the last fifteen years is something phenomenal, but rates of freight and passage are higher than they were when the two old companies had a monopoly, all of which is due to the combine.

Low rates are sure to develop both freight and passenger traffic, for it is a farce to have to pay more to cross the Pacific in fifteen days than it does to go by ship to London via Suez. If freight rates were reasonable there are many articles from America that could be sold in the East, and as the Hill line proposes to make low rates, it will be found that the steamers will come filled. They can well afford to load up with lumber, for which they will find a ready market, both in Japan and China. The Mail wonders if it will take weeks to discharge such a steamer, but it will be found she will have fully a dozen hatches and all modern steam appliances to insure quick work. If the Great Northern keeps out of the combine, and its interests will force it to run independent, it begins to look as though cheap transportation was within sight.

No N. w. of the St. David.

The American ship St. David, which was spoken by the America Maru some weeks ago, and later provisioned, had not arrived at Yokohama at the time the Jap liner Hongkong Maru left there. At the time of being spoken it was understood that Captain Ryder would endeavor to take his disabled vessel to Yokohama for repairs.

HONGKONG MARU SAILS EARLY TODAY

The Jap liner Hongkong Maru, Captain Filmer, arrived in port about noon yesterday after an uneventful trip from the Orient. The steamer left Yokohama on January 10.

The Hongkong Maru has a large number of through passengers. Lee Toma returned to Honolulu by her, and there are three lay-over passengers. The steamer brought over 600 tons of freight for Honolulu.

Purer Freeman says that the vessel would have had the distinction of entertaining Governor Taft and about sixty provincial governors of the Philippines aboard, had it not been for an accident. The vessel was at Manila and elaborate arrangements had been made to do the entertaining on Christmas eve, but the governors were out on a tour, and reaching Manila, had an important meeting to attend, which precluded the possibility of their boarding the steamer.

The Jap liner is scheduled to sail for San Francisco at about 10 o'clock this morning.
